A LEADERSHIP SUMMIT ON CHANGE AND EMERGING RISKS

2009 National Directors' Conference • September 13-15, 2009 • The Grove Park Inn • Asheville, North Carolina

Dear Conferees:

It is our pleasure to extend to you our personal invitation to join us at the 2009 National Directors' Conference, September 13 through September 15, to be held at the elegant Grove Park Inn, located in Asheville, North Carolina.

Built from granite boulders hewn from Sunset Mountain, The Grove Park Inn opened in 1913. At its opening dinner, William Jennings Bryan declared that it had been "built for the ages." In the decades since it has become one of the South's most famous and venerable venues. It's hard to believe today but there was a time soon after WWII when the only thing that kept the Inn standing was the prohibitive cost of tearing it down. The Inn was fully restored and, in 1973, it was named to the National Register of Historic Places. From yesterday to today, The Grove Park Inn has remained a place dedicated to providing its guests with comfort — and genuine delight.

This meeting brochure was designed to provide you general information on the hotel, transportation, business sessions, activities and meals.

As always, the National Directors' Conference will offer plenty of time for social events to connect with old friends and industry leaders. We encourage you to register today with your Coordinator; they will be working closely with you and AgFirst to confirm your meeting registration. August 14, 2009 is the deadline for meeting registration and hotel reservations.

We look forward to seeing you in Asheville in September!

Paul House

AgFirst Farm Credit Bank Board Chairman

A LEADERSHIP SUMMIT ON CHANGE AND EMERGING RISKS

2009 National Directors' Conference • September 13-15, 2009 • The Grove Park Inn • Asheville, North Carolina

NDC Conference Overview

Join other Farm Credit leaders at this year's National Directors' Conference: A Leadership Summit on Change and Emerging Risks, September 13-15, 2009, at The Grove Park Inn in Asheville, North Carolina.

In the last few years, the National Directors' Conference has become an important forum for discussions, debate and consensus building on key issues and the strategic direction of the Farm Credit System. Last year, the program explored reputation risk and how to manage it. We also dealt with the leadership challenges from dramatically spiking commodity prices, increased operating expenses that were impacting all market segments, and the upheaval in the nation's credit and financial markets that was creating funding risk. In addition, we learned more about the challenges and opportunities of implementing successful diversity programs.

This year, Farm Credit customers and institutions are facing some of these same issues as well as some new ones. Agriculture is being challenged economically. The turmoil in the financial industry continues, and we are seeing significant re-structuring of the financial sector. Adverse credits are increasing creating new stress on balance sheets, staff and directors. We remain under the threat that Congress might restructure the Federal financial institution regulatory structure and adversely impact the System.

The 2009 Conference will give you the latest updates regarding the recommendations surfaced by Project Amber. As you know, the Funding Corporation has been working with Morgan Stanley to study the impact of the change in the financial industry and its potential impact on the System. Reports on the efforts underway to address the project's key recommendations will be an important focus at the NDC this year. Also, we will provide an update on the System's Reputation Risk Management project. As a result of the reputation research and recommendations as well as your input at the National Directors' Conference last year, the PPC has established a Reputation Management Committee and an integrated reputation management function to address reputation risk at a System level. This is an important initiative for the System and the program will highlight how it is being implemented as a compliment to programs being undertaken by individual banks and associations.

We hope you will join your fellow directors and CEOs from banks and associations across the country as we exchange ideas and viewpoints on these important issues.

- ❖ The estimated cost for this year's conference is $1,425 per attendee. The registration fee covers all meals, business meetings and a special Sunday tour. Spouse/guest registration and tours will be priced separately on a per-attendee, per spouse/guest and per-tour basis. Each bank will need to determine how the cost of their association and bank representative's fees, travel and per diem expenses will be covered. The banks will be billed after the conference for the conference costs associated with its attendees and spouses/guests.

Once again, the Farm Credit System is "going green" and moving to an electronic registration format. All of the information you need regarding the meeting, conference registration and hotel reservations can be found by going to www.agfirst.com/NDC2009. The deadline to register and reserve your lodging is August 14, 2009.

We hope to see you in Asheville, North Carolina, for the 2009 National Directors' Conference: A Leadership Summit on Change and Emerging Risks.
